Collision of Teams. — The drunken driver of a horse and cart on Market street, just below the Fifth Ward market, yesterday afternoon, drove into R. J. Smyth's mule team, the shaft of the cart striking one of the mules in the ribs and causing a painful injury. The force of the collision threw the cart driver off his seat into the street. Picking himself up he started off down the street, while his horse started to run through the market and brought up against a butcher's bench, upsetting the cart and throwing him down. The horse was extricated without injury. A drunken driver is at any time a legitimate subject for the attention of the police, and ought to get it. He is a much more dangerous beast than the animals that are punched up from the gutters and run into the cooler by the guardians of the peace. Collision of Teams. - The drunken

DECISION OF LOCAL INSPECTORS REVERSED.

—The appealed case of John Winston, engineer of the Brilliant, which exploded her boilers several months ago, near Gallipolis, was decided on Saturday last by Su-pervising Inspector J. Fehrenbatch, the decision of the Local Inspectors at Gallipo-lis being reversed. Mr. Fehrenbatch found that, so far as the testimony before the Gallipolis Inspectors was concerned, no fault could be found with their verdict, but new testimony and facts upset their ruling. In one instance, a man who elaimed before the Supervising Inspectors that he couldn't read letters or numbers, testified that he saw that the guage registered 170 pounds of steam in figures. His testimony was rendered more discrepant by the fact that the guage used was an Eastman guage, and registers by twentles, so that he could not have seen 170 pounds of steam registered. The decision of Mr. Febrenbatch meets the general approval of river engineers. the Gallipolis Inspectors was concerned, no fault could be found with their verdict,

He Did It With His Little Razor—Serious Cutting Affray Load Night.—A serious cutting affray occurred last night, in the Second Ward, in which a couple of colored second Ward, in which a couple of colored literary society known as the Wilson Lyceum, at the old Fifth Street Church, on Eoff street, above 11th.

The Society was debating the question of naturalizing resident Chinamen, and the members got warmed up on the subject evidently. There were four debaters, who had been chosen to discuss the subject, and it seems that the other members of the Society was given to the jury immediate upon the matter under consideration. The speakers became so excited that the rules of order governing the Society were freely violated, and in the midst of the confusion Joseph McColloch arose and raised a point of order. As he rose to his feet Alfred Carzy, who sat near by, and who, it is alleged, was intoxicated, took hold of his coat and pulled him back to his seat. MeColloch resisted, and a seuffle ensued between them. This did not amount to much, however, but engendered a good deal of had blood, which was freely shed later in the evening, as the sequel will show.

About 11 o'clock a colored boy came barriedly to the city building and information of the color of the colored of the colored boy came barriedly to the city building and information of the colored by the colored boy came barriedly to the city building and information of the colored by the coaths of Were was appointed executrix. After an able to the Court room with a verdict of defendants, and were thereupon discharged the colored by the case of Kemp vs. Drs. McCoy later in the evening, as the sequel will show.

About 11 o'clock a colored boy came harriedly to the city building, and informed ed Capt. Porter Smith that Jo. McColloch had killed Alfred Carzy at the Fifth Street Church, and that he did it with his little razor. Capt. Smith and Col. Steve Johnston at once went to the neighborhood of the church, where they found Carzy weltering in blood, his head and face being frightfully cut and mutilated. The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. Campbell, on 12th street, where several of his wounds were dressed by Drs. Campbell and Hardesty. His condition was considered so critical, however, that it was deemed expedient to remove him at once to his home in an alley back of Alex. Young's drug store, in East Wheeling. There he was attended by Drs. Campbell, Hardesty and Ward, the latter having been sent for in the interim.

Will Carrey, a South Side cartman, had his horse run away with him yesterday afternoon in the Fifth Ward. The cart was pretty badly wrecked, but Carney escaped without injury.

They have a "paragrapher" on the evening paper who lets loose on an unprotected community the most maddening of puns. The "paragrapher" should be held to keep the peace.

After proceeding ashort distance the yow which had commenced in the church was renewed by Carzy, and after a few words the two came to blows, when McColloch pulled his razor and commenced to carve. Temperance Notes.—The citizens of Bridgeport have a treat in store for them this evening, in the shape of temperance addresses by two of the most proment and earnest workers in the cause in this vicinity, viz: Rev. James Moffat, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and E. G. Cracraft, Esq., both of this city. A note from Rev. Edgell, of Bridgeport, informs us that these gentlemen will address a temperance meeting in the M. E. Church at Kirkwood this evening at 70 clock. The managers of the Washington Hall meeting for this evening, however, as will be seen below, announce that Mr. Cracraft will have charge of the exercises there.

Col. A. J. Bowen, of Baltimore, will arrive to-day, and will address the meeting at Washington Hall this evening. Mr. E. G. Whether he will pull through all right remains to be seen, as other candidates appear confident. Mr. I. Carpenter, it is believed, will have little or no opposition for re-election as Assistant Marshal in the First district. For Tom Pryor's position as Assistant in the Second district, Messrs. Win.
